Inter-company training courses

Groups and individuals are welcome to take advantage of the opportunity to acquire cutting edge skills in the field of digital creation!

An inter-company training course groups together employees from different companies, as well as individuals. It is a short course which takes place on our premises.

These courses can be paid for by your employer as part of their annual professional training programme.

You can sign up throughout the year, depending on the start date of the course you are interested in.

Short courses

Every year we publish an updated course catalogue.

Our short courses take place over a 5-10 day period and are focused on those cutting-edge technical skills in demand in the industry. We also offer courses leading to a diploma.

They are an ideal and rapid solution for training your permanent and temporary team members.

Courses leading to a diploma

Master's degree in games and interactive media - JMIN, co-awarded by the Cnam and Poitiers University
Specialised master's: Interactive Digital Experiences, in partnership with Gobelins image school
Engineering Diploma STMN
